Texas A&M University
Department of Health and Kinesiology

Two Associate Professors of Health Education

The Division of Health Education within the Department of Health and Kinesiology at Texas A&M University seeks nominations and applicants to join an outstanding faculty of health educators in a program offering B.S., M.S., E-MS, and Ph.D. degrees in Health Education. The Division of Health Education is seeking two highly qualified health educators for the positions of Associate Professor. The Division places equal emphasis on the professional preparation of undergraduate and graduate students, and requires both rigorous scholarship and sponsored research agendas of its highly successful faculty. The Health Division serves almost 1,500 undergraduate and graduate students.

Qualifications: Successful candidates for this position must hold a doctoral degree in Health Education or a closely related discipline and must demonstrate a record of contribution to the mission of the Division of Health within the Department of Health and Kinesiology, including successful and effective teaching ability, proven record of significant external funding, record of scholarly publications and presentations, and service to the profession of health education. CHES or MCHES certification is preferred. The candidate’s university teaching and scholarly record must be commensurate with appointment as an Associate Professor with a Graduate Faculty appointment at Texas A&M University. Candidates must qualify for tenure upon arrival or obtain tenure within 3 years after appointment.

Responsibilities: Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses, securing external funding to support research agenda and graduate students, conducting research and presenting research in scholarly publications and presentations, serving on departmental committees, serving on master’s and doctoral committees.

Appointment: This is a nine month appointment. Review of candidates will begin by February 15, 2014 and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is August 15, 2014. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications.

Application: Send letter of application or nomination, curriculum vitae, and names, addresses (including e-mail) and telephone numbers of three references to:

Dr. Kelly Wilson
Department of Health and Kinesiology
Texas A&M University
College Station, TX 77843-4243
E-mail: kwilson@hlkn.tamu.edu
Department web site: http://hlknweb.tamu.edu

For more information, visit Texas A&M University’s website at: http://www.tamu.edu and the Department of Health & Kinesiology website (http://hlknweb.tamu.edu/)

Texas A&M University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. The University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and covered veterans.